JURY CALLED, THEN EXCUSED

NO CRIMINAL CASES ON DOCKET FOR TRIAL.

KALSTRUP FINED $200

The petit jury for the January term of circuit court was called this morning and then excused until Wednesday, as the criminal docket, set for today and Tuesday, has no cases for trial.

Judge John M. Dawson told the jurors that even though jury service often is thought distasteful, yet it is the most important duty of citizenship. The petit jury is selected by the county court from the highest type of citizenship from the list of voters on the poll books and the duty of the jurors in reality is to settle differences between their neighbors, the judge said.

Judge Dawson called the docket, setting cases for trial and making entries in others which will not go before a jury because of continuance or dismissal.

Kalstrup Case Settled.

The case of the State against Charles Kalstrup, who previously had entered a plea of not guilty to transportation of intoxicating liquors, was settled last week when the defendant changed his plea to guilty and received a fine of $200. A stay of execution for ninety days was allowed upon payment of $50 of the fine and giving bond of $200 to insure payment of the balance.

Five criminal cases were dismissed by the prosecuting attorney this morning. The three cases against George Tibbetts, charging maiming and wounding of cattle, were dismissed, as were the charges against Michael Sparks, forgery; Harry Wallace, forgery. The embezzlement charge against O. S. Wilson was continued.

A demurrer in the suit of Julius Berg against J. S. Casteel, Ravenwood banker, on a contract, was argued this morning and overruled.

Preferred Claim Granted.

The $92.91 preferred claim of Lewis E. Miller and Effie Ferree, administrators, against the Northwestern Bank of Burlington Junction was allowed.

PUPILS BEGIN SECOND TERM

CLASSES DISMISSED HALF DAY WHILE TEACHERS MEET.

THIRTEEN BEGINNERS

Each of Ward School Has New First Graders.—Confusion Lacking at High School.

The second semester of the school year for the Maryville public schools and high school opened today. Pupils reported to their new classes this morning where a check-up was made and books assigned. Classes were dismissed this afternoon for a teachers meeting.

The enrollment will be just about the same as the fall semester with an increase of students at the Washington school and a slight decrease at the Jefferson, Franklin, and Garfield ward schools, all of which advanced a large class of students from the B 4 grades of their schools to the A 4 at the Washington school, taught by Miss Charlotte Whelchel.

Thirteen children of Maryville have been entered as pupils in the first grade at the three ward schools. They follow:

Jefferson: Violet Ulmer, Dale Hooper, Kenneth King, and Ruth Hasty.

Garfield: Betty Joe Canon, Evelyn Jean Gore, Marvin Cook, Vincent Hoskins, Harry Duncan Wells.

Franklin: Helen McGinnis, Norma Bickett, Betty Lou Alkire, and Hazel Whitehead.

Five pupils of the second grade at the Jefferson school were neither tardy nor absent the whole of last semester. They are: Mary Gertrude Ashford, Carstina Shrubshell, Margaret Taylor, Kenneth Brown, and Billy Kinder.

At the high school most of the confusion usually caused by enrollment was lacking. H. R. Dieterick, principal, had been holding individual conferences with students during the last six weeks to arrange their schedules and avoid conflicts. Classes were held on abbreviated schedules this morning and will be resumed regularly tomorrow.

American Art to Be on Exhibition Here

State Teachers College to Display Original Works of Conway, Hawthorne, Metcalf and Others.

Twenty-four original paintings in oil, the work of American artists, in a traveling exhibit, are to be in Maryville during the last two weeks of January. The paintings are brought to Maryville for exhibition at the State Teachers College Residence Hall under the auspices of the arts department under Miss Olive DeLuce.

The art display is sent out by the American Federation of Arts, of which Miss DeLuce is a member. The national association is world wide in its contact with foreign art as well as American.

Among the celebrated pieces will be Conway, the Marine painter, Hawthorne and Metcalf, noted for their landscapes, and Groll, noted for paintings of "mesa" and the Southwest section of the United States.

The works or art are vivid in color and suggestive of springtime.

The exhibition is similar to the one sponsored by the arts department at Residence Hall two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ray south of Elmo announce the birth of a 13-pound boy last night.

GAME REFUGE MEET TUESDAY

FIELD MAN FOR STATE TO ADDRESS MEETING.

FIRST SITE ABANDONED

New Tracts to Be Proposed for Approval of Game and Fish Department.

Another attempt will be made to obtain a tract of land in this county suitable for a game refuge, it was announced here today. H. I. Piper, field man for the state fish and game department will meet with sportsmen and those interested in a game refuge at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the county court room of the courthouse.

With the announcement of Piper's presence here, it was definitely made known that the prospect for a refuge on a tract of land southeast of Maryville had been abandoned. The state department is unable to obtain leases from some of the property owners in this 3,000 acre tract, which several weeks ago was viewed by Keith McCause, state game and fish commissioner, and designated as the first auxiliary game refugee in the state.

Members of the game department and Maryville sportsmen have been negotiating with property owners in the tract southeast of the city, but said they could not obtain ten-year leases from all.

Delegations from three other districts in the county, wishing to locate a game refuge in their localities, will be present at the meeting tomorrow night to tender offers of tracts of land on which leases have been promised. Unless some definite action is taken, Nodaway County will lose the chance of obtaining a refuge.

Representatives from Graham, Barnard and the Myrtle Tree neighborhoods are expected to attend the meeting called for Mr. Piper. He will arrive here early tonight.

Cars Crash on North Road; One Overturns

Several Occupants of John Kennedy's Car Get Minor Injuries.—Both Machines Damaged.

An auto accident occurred about 8:30 last night about three quarters of a mile west on the gravel road from the north pavement when cars driven by Z. Bolla Alexander of Elmo and John Kennedy of Maryville collided. Alexander was driving west while the other car was coming toward Maryville.

The car driven by Kennedy was turned over and several of the occupants received scratches and bruises. The car was a complete wreck. Mr. Alexander was the only occupant of his car and was not injured. The Alexander car was damaged some.

Mr. Alexander says the other car ran into the left rear fender of his car. Kennedy would not discuss the accident except to say that the headlights on the Alexander car blinded him and that he had drawn over to the side of the road and had come to an almost complete stop.

DEMOCRATS GO TO ST. JOSEPH

COMMITTEE CALLS STATE CONVENTION FOR FEB. 28.

TO START REED DRIVE

Date Set for Meeting Is Unusually Early, So Presidential Boom May Be Launched.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 16.—St. Joseph, Mo., was awarded the 1928 Missouri Democratic convention here today by the state committee in meeting here.

Balloting on the convention site was: St. Joseph 29; Jefferson City 16; Excelsior Springs 9; Sedalia 6; Joplin 3 and Springfield 1.

The committee then voted to call the convention together at St. Joseph on Tuesday, February 28.

Calling of the convention so early was interpreted as reflecting a desire on the part of the committee to reach an early official endorsement of the presidential candidacy of U. S. Senator James A. Reed, who already has been endorsed by the committee.

A "Reed for President" atmosphere featured the committee meeting.

County committees were instructed by the state committee to meet Feb. 4 to select delegates to the state convention.

Smith Not to Argue Case Before Senate

Illinois Senator-Designate to Reject Hearing on Floor if It Be Offered.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the Senate primary investigating committee, today deferred presenting the committee's resolution declaring the seat of Senator Elect Frank Smith of Illinois, to be vacated. Reed indicated he would present the resolution tomorrow.

Springfield, Ill., Jan 16.—C. J. Doyle, personal attorney for Senator-Elect Frank L. Smith, said today that Smith would not voluntarily appear on the floor of the Senate to defend his right to his seat.

It had been reported that the Reed investigating committee, which was expected to report today, would recommend that he be allowed a hearing on the floor.

Doyle made public a telegram from Smith to Senator Charley S. Deneen, Republican, Illinois, which said in part:

"The gracious and temporary privilege of the floor for the limited purpose of making a statement is not the right under the constitution to which a duly elected senator is entitled.

"The people of Illinois expect the senator legally chosen at an election, against which there never has been the slightest charge of fraud or irregularity, to be accorded the constitutional right to take the oath of office. Any procedure less than this would constitute an affront to the people of Illinois to which I will not consent nor will not contribute.

"When Illinois has been accorded her right and the oath of office has been administered, I shall then, willingly, freely, gladly and unafraid invite and meet by the fullest cooperation any test of moral fitness or otherwise to continue as a member of the United States Senate."

SENATE FOR TARIFF CUT

ADOPTS RESOLUTION TO LOWER REPUBLICAN SCHEDULE.

POLITICS BOILS OVER

California Senator Predicts Hoover's Election.—Robinson Denies Republican Prosperity.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The United States Senate went on record today as favoring reduction of existing Republican tariff schedules.

The McMaster resolution was adopted, stating that such revision should be made to establish agriculture on a basis of equality with industry.

The vote was 54 to 34.

Twelve Mid-Western Republicans joined with the almost solid Democratic forces to secure adoption of the resolution.

The twelve were Blaine, Wisconsin; Borah, Idaho; Brookhart, Iowa; Capper, Kansas; Frazier, North Dakota; Howell, Nebraska; LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster, South Dakota; Norbeck, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska; Nye, North Dakota, and Pine, Oklahoma.

Only two Democrats voted against the resolutions, Senators Broussand, Louisiana, and Kendrick, Wyoming.

"Prosperity Doesn't Exist."

Washington, Jan. 16.—A Republican president and Republican senators are attempting to keep their party in power by boasting of a prosperity which does not exist, Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, charged today in speaking for the McMaster tariff resolution.

"Do they believe the country can be persuaded to keep the Republican party in power by repeated assertions of a false statement?" Robinson asked.

Robinson said unjust tariff schedules were partially responsible for the plight of American agriculture and urged adoption of the McMaster resolution calling for downward revision.

Senator Talks Hoover.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover's qualifications for the presidency were discussed in the Senate today during debate on the McMaster tariff resolution.

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, started the digression by predicting that Hoover would be the next Republican president of the United States.

To Oppose Tax Cut Delay.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Democratic members of the Senate finance committee today voted unanimously to oppose the Republican move for delay of the House tax reduction bill until after March 15.

Senator Smoot, Republican, chairman of the committee, called a meeting for tomorrow to determine officially whether the bill should be delayed.

More Fraud Charges Filed Against Vare

W. B. Wilson, Contesting Senate Seat, Adds Charges in Bill Filed in Senate.

Washington, Jan. 16. — Additional charges of fraud and corruption in the senatorial election of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania were contained in a bill of particulars filed in the Senate today by William B. Wilson, Democrat, who is contesting for Vare's seat.

Wilson alleged in his new complaint the Republican organizations in several Pennsylvania counties entered into a conspiracy whereby campaign funds were concealed. He also charged that in the conspiracy improper votes were cast; that dead persons were voted; that fictitious names were registered and that persons not of voting age were permitted to cast ballots.

FLIERS MAKE THIRD TRY FOR RECORD IN AIR

Chamberlin and Williams Overhaul Plane and Take Off at 12:52 This Afternoon.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Undismayed by two previous failures, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Williams today began their third attempt within a week to set a new world's record for sustained flight.

The fliers left Roosevelt Field at 12:52 p. m., in the huge Bellanca monoplane they used in their previous efforts, owned by A. R. Martine, Wall Street banker.

Chamberlin and Williams came within an hour and a half of bettering the present record Saturday when they were forced to descend because a leaky fuel tank had wasted their gas supply.

They are trying to regain for the United States the endurance honors lost to Germany last August when Johann Risticz and Cornelius Edzard stayed aloft in a Junkers plane for 52 hours, 22 minutes and 31 seconds.

With a new wing tank installed to replace the faulty one, the motor completely overhauled and ane w set of instruments installed, both flyers and their backer were confident that today's attempt would succeed.

NEW MARINES INTO FIGHTING

REINFORCEMENTS TAKE FIELD IN NICARAGUA.

40 KILLED FROM AIR

U. S. Airplane Bombing Squadron Attacks Rebels—Policy Assailed in Europe.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 16.—United States marine reinforcements have taken the field against the rebel band led by General Augustino Sandino, it was learned today.

The Marines, numbering approximately 1,200, arrived at Corinto from the United States over the week-end and instead of proceeding here, went directly to field posts.

Meanwhile Major General LeJeune commander of the marine corps, and Brigadier General Logan Feland, who has been placed in charge of the American forces here, proceeded from Corinto to Managua.

40 Rebels Killed From Air.

They immediately went into conference with Colonel Louis Gulick, who has been in command here. The officers spent several hours going over the situation.

The last major engagement with the Sandino rebels was reported Saturday when an official report said Major R. E. Rowell, commanding a marine airplane bombing squadron, had attacked a Sandino patrol, killing forty rebels.

The Sandino patrol returned the fire. One of the Marine planes was struck twice but was not downed.

Europe Sees Trouble.

London, Jan. 16.—European newspapers, featuring an American marine corps aerial bombing attack on Nicaraguan Liberals alongside stories regarding President Coolidge's reception at Havana, today predicted trouble for the United States at the Pan-American conference.

Simultaneously anti-Imperialists and Latin-American students' organizations issued manifestoes attacking the United States policy in Central America.

"American policy involves assertion of virtual sovereignty over Nicaragua and the reduction of her government to the position of a puppet," the Liberal Manchester Guardian said editorially.

Kansas City Woman Routs Negro Bandit

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 16.—Shielded by a window sill in her home last night, Mrs. Gertrude Barker routed a negro bandit while two persons he had just robbed lay on the ground between the combatants.

Those robbed were Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hanna. Dr. Hanna had put his motor car up for the night when he was confronted by a negro with a rifle. The bandit forced the couple to lie on the ground and took $76 from Dr. Hanna.

Hearing the disturbance, Mrs. Parker opened her bedroom window and opened fire with a revolver. Several shots were fired over the prone bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Hanna before the bandit took to his heels. No one was injured.

HANDS OFF TO WORLD

COOLIDGE'S HAVANA SPEECH VITALIZES MONROE DOCTRINE.

A FRIENDLY NOTICE

President Declares U. S. Is Concerned Only With Preservation of Western Ideals.

Radio Links Two Continents.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 16. — The greatest international network ever attempted was used today to broadcast the speeches of President Coolidge and President Machado at the opening of the sixth Pan-American conference.

There was a complete hookup between Havana and the North American continent and another between Havana and South America.

By CARL D. GROAT
United Press Staff Correspondent

Havana, Jan. 16.—President Coolidge and President Machado of Cuba today joined in advocacy of a policy of mutual good will and respect for American nations.

Their speeches opened the Pan-American conference. They disclosed, in somewhat veiled terms, the respective views of Latin-American nations and of the United States regarding the destiny of the Western Hemisphere.

President Coolidge emphasized good will, but his speech contained a warning to the world that American republics would work out their destinies in their own way.

Must Maintain Ideals.

"We realize that one of the most important services which we can render humanity, the one for which we are peculiarly responsible," he said, "is to maintain the ideals of our western world.

"No one else can discharge it for us.

"If it is to be met, we must meet it ourselves."

President Machado's speech reflected the under-surface attitude of the sister republics below the Rio Grande.

Cuba's sentiments, he said were:

"That nations here represented, though politically separated, should be united in the common name of America; some not allowing themselves to be controlled by unjustified prejudices; others avoiding any demonstration that might result in an involuntary threat."

He took occasion also to stress Cuba's complete independence.

U. S. Delegation Applauded.

The American delegation arrived at the National Theater, where the conference was inaugurated, at 10:30 a. m., and received an enthusiastic ovation from other delegations.

Presidents Machado and Coolidge arrived together at 11 o'clock. They received a demonstration that could hardly have been surpassed in enthusiasm.

President Machado's first sentence in his opening speech of welcome contained a glowing tribute to the United States.

"We behold the illustrious person of Calvin Coolidge, chief executive of the greatest of all democracies," he said. The Cuban executive continued:

"I predict that at this gathering of all Americas we may complete that which constitutes our common aspiration, the rule of peace and justice. We gather with the practical purpose of consolidating a mutual, beneficial and positive brotherhood, both in spirit and interests."

Both President Coolidge and President Machado had to pause frequently during their speeches while delegates and spectators applauded.

Outburst Greets Coolidge.

A tremendous outburst came when Coolidge arose, adjusted his horn rimmed glasses and smiled broadly at his audience.

In a speech preaching the Golden Rule, peace and democracy for the western world the President gave what was generally regarded as a new vitality to the Monroe Doctrine. At the same time, he declared that the poli-

PROHIBITION IS 8 YEARS OLD TODAY

Sponsors of Measure Call on Friends to Lend Aid Against Opposing Forces.

Westerville, O., Jan. 16.—Today is a gala day for supporters of prohibition—it is the birthday of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Exactly eight years ago the amendment was written into the Federal Constitution, and since that day, almost, the issue of enforcement has been a bitter one between opposing factions.

The day found "The American Issue," official publication of the Anti-Saloon League here, calling on supporters and all friends of prohibition to lend assistance against the forces that oppose it.

Here in Westerville, the home of prohibition, the days are optimistic. They feel secure in the future of the law.

Prohibitionists, in viewing their measure, believe that there are three places at which the wets will attack. These, they said, were the oncoming generation, the honest wets and the foreign-born population of the United States.

"This attack can be successfully thwarted," they have said, "only by the most vigorous educational campaign the drys have ever conducted."

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment professionally criticized observance of the day by drys as "bad tactics." The wet organization said the drys should not remind the nation that "poison rum and impure liquor have caused 65,000 fatalities in America."

FARM RELIEF DRIVE BEGINS

HEARINGS OPEN BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE.

BACKERS ARE UNITED

Agricultural Block Almost Solid for Equalization Fee of McNary-Haugen Bill.

Washington, Jan. 16.—The farm relief campaign began in the House today.

Hearings opened before the House Agricultural Committee, with representatives of farm organizations outlining an almost completely unified demand for legislation based on the equalization fee plan of the McNary-Haugen bill, which was killed by presidential veto in the last congress.

Representatives of all the national farm organizations except the National Grange yesterday agreed to stick by the McNary-Haugen bill, F. W. Murphy, Minneapolis, chairman of the legislative committee of the Grain Belt Federation of Farm Organizations, announced.

To Drop One Provision.

The provision of the vetoed bill to which President Coolidge objected will be dropped, the farm labor leaders agreed. This provided that president should appoint the farm marketing board from men recommended by the farm organizations.

The plan now agreed on provides for a revolving fund of $400,000,000 instead of $250,000,00 as in the vetoed bill, to finance marketing of farm surplus.

Chairman Haugen, Republican, Iowa, announced at the opening of the committee sessions that he would attempt to conclude the hearings quickly in order to expedite congressional action. Farmer leaders expect the bill to be reported favorably in about three weeks.

To Seek Hgiher Farm Tariffs.

Meanwhile Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, farm bloc leader, prepared another farm relief move. He will introduce soon a resolution for upward revision of the tariff on certain agricultural commodities. Dickinson also favors the McNary-Haugen bill.

In the Senate, a vote on the McMaster resolution advocating equalization of tariff protection by lowering high rates on industrial commodities, was scheduled for 3 p. m. The Senate debated this proposal all last week.

Homage Heaped on President Coolidge

Fullness of Latin Hospitality Is Showered on U. S. Executive on Cuban Visit.

Havana, Cuba., Jan. 16—Cuba today heaped fresh homage upon President Calvin Coolidge, son of the Vermont hills.

He trod again the rose-strewn paths over which on Sunday he passed while 300,000 unlocked their hearts to honor him in the richness and fullness of Latin hospitality.

He had received on Sunday a reception outdone only by the Latins of France and Italy for Woodrow Wilson in their first great outburst of enthusiasm toward him at the end of the world war. Cuba opened its portals to Calvin Coolidge and bade him a welcome that amazed his party and overjoyed the silent man from the granite hills of New England.

Spontaneous and brilliant as was the Sunday reception, today's homage bade fair to eclipse the first outburst.

Cuba proclaimed for this occasion a national holiday.

And, with all the charm of Latin generosity, the nation through its magnificent capital city turned out en masse early this forenoon to shout again its welcomes, strew his pathway with flowers, and say to him in the fervor of the southland that it appreciated his gesture of good will in journeying to a foreign shore.

Hands Off to World

cies he outlined involved "no antagonism toward any other section of the world or any other organization."

These passages, largely viewed as a friendly notice to the League of Nations and the world at large that the Americans will bind themselves ever more closely together, without outside interference, were linked with assurances that the Americans intend to let justice, equality and respect for each others' sovereignty prevail in all their relations.

Much of Mutual Interest.

"The existence of this conference, held for the consideration of measures of purely American concern, involves no antagonism toward any other section of the world or any other organization," President Coolidge said. "It means that the independent republics of the western hemisphere, animated by the same ideals, enjoying the common blessings of freedom and peace, realize that there are many matters of mutual interest and importance which can best be investigated and resolved through the medium of such friendly contact and negotiation as is necessary for cooperative action.

"We realize that one of the most important services which we can render humanity, the one for which we are peculiarly responsible, is to maintain the ideals of our Western World. That is our obligation.

"No one else can discharge it for us.

No Reference to Nicaragua.

"If it is to be met, we must meet it ourselves. We must join together in assuring conditions under which our republics will have the freedom and the responsibility of working out their own destiny in their own way."

The President's speech made no reference to the recent U. S. ordering of more marines to Nicaragua.

"Consideration, cooperation, friendship and charity," he designated as the "highest law" in international dealings, adding,

"If we are to experience a new era in our affairs, it will be because the world recognizes and lives in accordance with this spirit. Its most complete expressions is the Golden Rule."

Friendship Is Theme.

The President's message to a notable gathering of Pan American delegates here carried as its main theme peace and cooperation among the Americans. He advocated stronger ties of business and communication, and favored development of aviation as a means of strengthening the bonds among the sister republics of the north and south. Mr. Coolidge's address, regarded as one of the strongest pleas of friendship among the Pan-American countries, praised the democracy of these nations and held that "next to our attachment to the principle of self-government has been our attachment to the policy of peace." The President declared the American republics had always gauged their military establishments to the needs of self-protection but never "for the purpose of overawing or subjugating other nations."

"In the spirit of Christopher Columbus all of the Americas have an eternal bond of unity, a common heritage bequeathed to us alone," Mr. Coolidge said. "Unless we together redeem the promise which his voyage held for humanity, it must remain forever void. This is the destiny which Pan America has been chosen to fulfill. . . .

Urges Peaceful Settlement.

President Coolidge declared the "republics south of the Rio Grande have produced a most satisfactory record of a resort to mediation, arbitration and other peaceful methods of adjustment and adjudication of their international differences." Maintenance and extension of such principles, he said, underlie the present conference.

"The whole atmosphere of the conference," he continued, "is animated with the spirit of democracy and good will. All nations here stand on an exact footing of equality. The smallest and the weakest speaks here with the same authority as the largest and the most powerful."

Turning to the question of the press as a medium of promoting international good will, Mr. Coolidge emphasized that much damage can be done by "misinterpreting facts or by carelessness in presenting them in their true light."

Development of inter-American highways and aviation, he suggested, would act as a new link in the bonds among the Americans.

Cleaning Saves Buying!

It has often been demonstrated that garments kept fresh and spotless by frequent visits to the cleaner, last much longer than if allowed to become too soiled. Many kinds of stains, perspiration, grease and gritty dust, actually weaken fabric if not removed promptly, and clothes wear out sooner than they should.

Dry cleaning costs little and lengthens the life of your clothes.

We have the equipment.

We know how.

Live Life Carefully; Let Inner Soul Shine

These Lessons Drawn by Rev. W. S. Woodhull From Parable of the Ten Virgins.

The Rev. W. S. Woodhull took the Biblical story of the wise and foolish maidens as the topic of his sermon at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning.

"Five of these maidens," he pointed out, "were admitted to the wedding festivities. But five were shut out. That is the way of life. Every bit of good news has its implied alternative of bad news. Even the Gospel, the Good Tidings, is full of shadows. There is the narrow road leading to life but also there is the broad life leading to death. We will do well if, like the sensible maidens, we live thoughtfully. To handle opportunities carelessly is not a mistake. It is a sin. 'I didn't think,' is not an excuse. It is a confession of guilt.

"The maidens who went in were admitted because they were able to give light. And the light shone because they had an abundant supply of oil. So in life. The glory of the outward life depends upon that which is within.

"The wedding feast may represent heaven to our thought. And the question will arise as we see some let in and some shut out in the story. Is heaven a matter of place or a matter of character? The answer is simple. It is both. That is whatever Heaven may be in the truest sense, for us it must be a matter of place if we are to think of it at all. For we as human beings think in terms of place.

"But we must not forget that these went in to the feast because they were wise enough to have oil for their lamps. They were admitted not so much on account of what they believed or had done but, fundamentally, because of what they were. Unless there be in us the inner life that makes the outer shining we will not be able to enter into Heaven. Each one of us will finally go to his own place, that for which we are fitted by our own choices.

"So the three words that come to us from the parable of the Ten Virgins are—that we should live life not carelessly but seriously; that we should seek that inner grace of life that will shine out in word and deed; and that we should prepare ourselves for Heaven so fully that we shall be able to appreciate its highest happinesses."

"Bible Is Greatest Fact Giving Book"

Stamp of God on Every Page and Interwoven in Every Story, Rev. Guy L. Prather Says.

The Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church, devoted his sermon yesterday morning to the subject, "The Bible is God's Word."

"The Bible," the minister said, "claims to be God's Word. His stamp is on every page and interwoven with every story. Multitudes so accept it, not in ignorance and superstition, but after careful study. Many have labored long to prove it otherwise, yet it still wings its way from heart to heart and around the world. Every assault but loosens the soil and sends its roots deeper into human hearts. We welcome every honest investigation. We fear none.

"From earliest Christian times," he added, "these writings have been studied and lifted and united into one book, copies made and circulated, translated into other tongues, and scattered far and wide. The best scholars and the best men have labored long to give us this Book in its purity. We may depend upon the united Christian judgment of the centuries and of all who love the Lord.

"The Bible writers were able men and knew whereof they wrote. They were honest men, having no selfish end to serve, and in peril for their writings. They mutually support each. They agree with the history of their day without error. The outward evidence for our faith in the Bible is more abundant than any facts of ancient history. If we deny this evidence, then we must deny the evidence for ancient Greece and Rome.

"The progress and influence of Bible teachings point to a divine power. It triumphs over all opposition. It works and proves itself. It fits into human life, in sin and temptation, in sickness and death, in all life's problems. It is a supreme spiritual power as no other book.

"Scott on his dying bed said to Lockhart, 'Like a seed, it carries marvelous powers to grow and multiply and bless.'"

KEPT HEALTH OFFICER BUSY

SMALLPOX CASES HAVE BEEN RELEASED.

42 BIRTHS; 24 DEATHS

County Officer Says Health of Rural School Children Good During School Year.

"The smallpox situation in the county kept the Health Department busy during the month of December with cases in Pickering, Barnard and Maryville," Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health officer, said in his monthly report today.

He added, "We were able to get about 150 vaccinations done during November and December and the cases all have been released and we do not expect many other cases to develop."

Dr. Fryer's report showed that there were forty-two births and twenty-four deaths during the month of December in Nodaway County, which was twenty fewer births and four fewer deaths than during the same period in 1926.

Rural Health Good.

Dr. Fryer said that the "health of the rural school children has been exceptionally good during the school year just passed. The school buildings and surroundings have been improved and are now in good shape. The teachers have co-operated exceptionally well with the health department, which has aided considerably in the control of contagious diseases and an increase in the number of school days attended."

Of the reportable diseases brought to the attention of the health department during December, there was one case of diptheria, seven of smallpox, one of scarlet fever and one of chicken pox, from which no deaths resulted.

During December 1926, there was one case of diphtheria; one of tuberculosis, which resulted in death; and two deaths from pneumonia.

The monthly report shows thirty-five sanitary inspections were made, one examination for lunacy and two of prisoners; visits made to twenty in the acute communicable disease control and ten cases quarantined. Ten were examined for tuberculosis, one case found positive.

Glory of Service Not in Self-Aims

Rev. W. N. Dewar Says It Must Be Voluntary, Altruistic, Proud of Privilege and Desirous of Good.

"Few men go out into the world with the debilerate aim to serve it, to do it good, and stake life on the principle. The aim of manhood in general is not to give but to get. Not to deliberately render a service, but to be served," the Rev. William N. Dewar, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church said in his sermon yesterday morning.

The subject of his sermon was, "The Glory of Service." The text was taken from Matthew 20:28: "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

"In a sense we all serve as workers in the world's workshop. We all do our bit, but very few of us do more than our bit, and there is a world of difference between the service we render the world as we are compelled to do it by stern necessity and duty and the service contemplated and completed by Jesus and by all who understand his view of life," the minister said.

"In some sort of service there is little of that thing we call glory; in the service rendered by Jesus and in the service it calls forth in His followers there is glory of the finest kind."

The Reverend Mr. Dewar said the glory of all true service has certain elements and characteristics by which it is easily known. Speaking of the glory of Christian service he enumerated four phases, its voluntariness, its altruism, glory in privilege, and desire to be of good to fellowmen.

Touching upon the service of a father, the family, the business man, the community, the government, the workman and his employer, the Reverend Mr. Dewar said, "We are compelled to these by duty and necessity, by commanding circumstance. The voluntary element is lacking even here, and the average man frets against the friction of restraint that keeps him to the line of duty. We perform our work with a bad grace and actually believe sometimes that we have been ill-treated by the world.

"Altruism is self-sacrifice. Some people are always insisting upon their rights. They never get further than that. Such insisting upon our rights would be well enough if the area of our rights were not so much restricted to self.

"Better to sacrifice them and self in the bargain, for self in the life is often the element of hurt and destruction. He that seeks to save his life shall lose it.

"When we consider that the bulk of life's happiness and joy comes from service we shall count it a privilege to serve. There can be no glory in the service of Christ if it is done as a duty. It is an honor, a privilege, a joy even to be given the opportunity to serve. Paul knew that. While in prison he wrote to a friend thanking God that he was accounted worthy to be in the ministry of Christ.

"To look for a reward for ourselves, to hope for heaven thereby, is to stop short of the end and inject the self element which robs service of its glory. Every good deed is its own reward. Seek for no return other to see the smile of joy, or hope, or love light on the face of another."

Says Christianity Is a Reasonable Religion

If in Doubt, a Trial Should Decide, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell Believes.

"God did not give us the Bible to make thinking unnecessary, but to stimulate it," declared the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, speaking on "A Reasonable God."

The text was taken from Isaiah 1:18 "Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord."

"Reason is the faculty that takes the raw material of knowledge and formulates it into a system," said the Reverend Mr. Mitchell. "Man is a reasonable being. It is because of reason that he is above the beasts of the fields and the birds of the air. If you can reason with man you can bring him to a sensible way of looking at things.

"Nothing is more reasonable than the Christian religion. You could not worship a God who created this world and looked down on its sorrows and misery from the hills of glory unmoved. If God be not a God of love, a damaging blow has been inflicted upon the Deity. We Christians believe that a God who is unlike Jesus is false. Jesus came to reveal the Father and tell us what God is like. Jesus is more than a teacher of Divine Wisdom. He is a revealer of Divine Love.

"Surely the experiences of the saints, apostles and all Christian people must count for something. It could not be possible that you could mislead through all the ages the million that have witnessed the power of an endless life. If we are in doubt about the evidence of Christianity, the best way to become sure of them is to try Christianity.

"The reason Christianity is reasonable to me is because it works. Christianity helps me to live the kind of life I know I ought to live."

Co-Operation in Church Work Urged by Christian Minister

Christianity, if it would win the world, must present a united front, just as business, individuals and nations have learned to do, the Rev. L. E. Lakin declared yesterday morning in a sermon at the First Christian Church on "The Secret of Evangelistic Power."

"You have heard it said," he pointed out, "that competition is the life of trade. I submit that cooperation is the life of business. We tried competition, and we developed the competitive spirit to a high degree. But we are learning better. It's cooperative buying now and cooperative selling.

"As individuals we are no longer doing the world's work; we are working as companies, as corporations, as states, as nations. It is not an uncommon thing to hear even of world enterprises.

"The church has long reflected upon the work assigned it by giving itself to the task as the various individuals saw fit. Verily, 'the children of the world are wiser in their generation than the children of light.' When the people are 'as one,' the glory of the Lord will not only fill the house, but fill the land. A united front, practical Christian union, will win the admiration, and the sympathy of the present unbelieving world."

The minister cited as an example the statement in Acts: "We are all here to hear."

"The preacher had come," said Mr. Lakin, "and the head of the house had gathered the family and the servants together, and then that welcome to the speaker. In a word the audience was together not to argue, not to criticise, but to hear, and they were all there. Any man could preach a wonderful sermon—and Peter did."

"Political, social differences, race color, attainments, these are all forgotten when the church has her place," he continued. "To see great things, little things must be submerged. Little things cannot creep in when the mind is filled with great things.

"Preachers don't build churches, churches make preachers," the speaker declared.

"It may be felt that nothing can stay the divisive tendencies of today, that the forces that are now working havoc will multiply and become stronger and finally succeed in making all men enemies. I answer, they will unless some overwhelming power, some matter of common and all-absorbing interest, overshadows and renders insignificant in comparison the things that are dividing. Loyalty to Christ will do this. And it is the only thing that will, or can. When Christ is "all and in all," the world will be one.

"The church will succeed, not in proportion to its ability to gain numbers, but in proportion to its ability to enlist helpers. Numbers make problems; helpers solve problems. To enlist recruits is commanded, but to assimilate the material we have, to train it, to exercise it, to teach it, and to lead it, is the problem for each local congregation. The church that is equipped and trained can carry on a successful campaign in a short time. Without these preparations, all its attempts will be pitiful.

"It occurs to me what we need most in the church today is 'training on the old Camp Ground.' We must learn to keep step. We must become inured to hardships. We must grow accustomed to difficult things. We must come to know that winning the battle is the chief purpose of life. We must be inspired in a ward, by the moral equivalent of war.

"Evangelism is to the fore in all Protestant churches. It ought to be. I revel in evangelistic opportunities. Just to get into real evangelistic work is to get into heaven. But what is evangelism?"

The Reverend Mr. Lakin then said there were several kinds of evangelism, that some were able to do good, while others were a positive harm. He declared that the secret of evangelism is not in the preacher or the program, but in the church.

"In union there is strength. And we succeed as a people in proportion to our ability to live and strive together," he concluded.

CHAPTER XXI.

That year—1883—witnessed the formation of the Cherokee Live Stock Association, almost the first official act of which was the leasing of 6,000,000 acres of grazing land in the Strip from the Cherokee Nation. For this the association paid $100,000 a year, which was considerably less than the taxes would have been had the members owned the land themselves.

The association came into being chiefly because the need had been recognized by the cattlemen of forming a united and organized front to their enemies. They had not a legal leg to stand on, and they knew it; they had only one thing and that was questionable. It was possession.

Just how precarious was their position was not generally understood, even by those who actively opposed them. For one thing, they had absolutely no legal protection against vandalism; if a passing stranger happened to be seized with the notion to destroy what structures he found on one of these ranches, he might do so and fear only the wrath of the one offended, for he would not be destroying property as the law interpreted the word.

Inasmuch as the opening of the Cherokee Strip to settlement would mean the dispersal of the cattlemen and the disappearance of the big ranches, the Cherokee Live Stock Association sought to prevent the coming of that day or, at least, to defer it to the dim and distant future. Consequently it set up a powerful lobby in Washington, subsidized at $25,000 a year, which fought bitterly every bill introduced in congress, or likely to be introduced, which advocated the opening of the Indian lands to the white home seekers.

Among the most active of the organizers were Titus Moore and George Washington Miller, his closest neighbor. Miller had been a pioneer in the Strip, had in fact built the first bit of fence in all that country. In partnership with another, he had owned the LK brand, but the partnership had been dissolved, the brand along with it, and the year before the formation of the Live Stock Association had seen the birth of Miller's new brand, the 101.

This ranch, one of the largest in all the territory, was to be preserved, even after the opening of the Indian lands, by Miller and his three sons, Joseph, Zack and George L.; and was to grow in acreage and national prominence. Today it is one of the show places of Oklahoma.

On infrequent occasions Tony Harrison had been in the habit of riding over to the 101 ranch and visiting with Joe Miller, who was his own age, a big, raw-boned youth of 16. They had ridden together through the horse-high blue stem in the valleys, had picked the wild grapes from the heavy-hanging vines in the timbered bends, and shot wild turkeys along the Salt Fork.

Many times during that summer Joe Craig would pause in whatever he happened to be doing, to gaze in puzzled fashion at Tony Harrison. The boy now was in the habit of falling into long spells of silence; in many ways, Craig decided, he was again the old Tony Harrison, the little fellow he had encountered on a certain tragic evening in Caldwell.

"Tony," Craig often urged, "you need a little change. Why don't you run over to the 101 and visit the Miller boys? You're tired of associating with old horses like me and the other no-account hands; what you need is a little spell with someone your own age."

To these suggestions Tony replied with a shrug and a careless shake of the head, and Craig, vaguely troubled, worried about the boy, not in the least suspecting what lay on the mind of his young charge.

Rita's letters to Titus Moore revealed a keen interest in her new surroundings. There was so much to do; she had met so many interesting people; she and her mother had spent several weeks with friends in Washington.

"I am not sure," she wrote, "whether I'll visit the ranch this summer. I am anxious to see you again, but Mother and I have been so very busy, and there are still so many things to be done. Did Mother tell you about our change in plans for my school?"

And she went on to explain that a finishing school in Washington had been decided upon, rather than the one in Richmond. "They tell me it is ever so much nicer," she added, "and I have met two very lovely girls about my own age who will be classmates of mine."

She enclosed a photograph of herself on a horse. It had been taken in Rock Creek park in Washington and showed her in a very proper riding habit. She was in a side saddle.

Titus More exhibited the picture to Joe Craig and Tony Harrison and invited their criticism. Craig shook his head dubiously.

"It don't seem natural, Colonel. She looks like she's ready to fall off. My golly! She's been used to ridin' astride ever since she could shinny up on a pony. She's sure pretty, though, in them clothes. She'll be a young lady before you know it." He passed the picture on to Tony.

"Back there," the colonel informed Craig, "it would be unheard of to see a woman sit a horse like a man." He shook his head rather mournfully and voiced a little of his rebellion. "Damn it all, I don't want them to go too far in this so-called civilizin' process. I don't want them to make the girl over so I can't recognize her." He intimated that that was exactly what he feared might come to pass.

"You needn't worry about that," Craig informed him positively. "Rita's—well, she's Rita. What about it, Tony?"

The boy looked up from his silent study of the picture. "I guess you're right," he said tonelessly, and held out the photograph to Titus Moore. He was telling himself that his fears regarding Rita had been confirmed. There had been, first, that strange, shy smile at parting. And now this. . . .

"I guess she won't be out here this summer after all," Titus Moore was saying. The words fell on Tony's hearing like a blow. Why?—Murmuring some inarticulate excuse, he turned away from them and walked off.

Fumblingly he saddled his horse and sprang savagely to its back with a curt command. The horse broke into a canter, but he impatiently spurred him to a gallop and rode aimlessly beneath the withering sun for the better part of an hour.

Beneath the shade of some trees that lined Cottonwood Creek he dismounted and threw himself prone upon the grass. A dry "spell" was upon the country, there had been no rain for weeks, and the cattle were listless and hugged the banks of the river and creek. The water in Cottonwood Creek had fallen several feet, but from where Tony lay on the overhanging bank he could see his reflection in the little stream, and this he studied in cold appraisal.

He tried to reason with himself. "You fool," he snarled at his mirrored face, "what's come over you? What difference does it make if Rita doesn't come back? What difference does Rita make anyway—didn't your daddy always tell you the biggest fool in the world was a man that cared for a woman?"

It came over him then in a swift rush—the thing he had dared not admit to himself—the realization that this hopelessness that had descended upon him could mean but one thing; he was in love with Rita Moore. It was not, then, that he merely was lonely, that he missed her sprightly but tyrannical companionship; he—absurd, impossible thought!—cared for her.

"What a fool. . . ."

Savagely bitterly, he cursed his reflection, then permitted himself to linger deliciously over the thought; but in the end he groaned and rolled over on his back and lay with his face upturned to the burning sky the while he reflected on the hopelessness of his position and the gulf that was widening every day between himself and the daughter of Titus Moore.

He, Tony Harrison, he told himself, was a hired hand; an orphan to boot, the son of a professional gambler who had been murdered while plying his trade. He was wilfully cruel to himself:—"You're just a nobody, and Rita—amounts to something. Her people count for something back in Virginia; they've got money, position, everything."

Even now, he was thinking. Rita would be mingling with the kind of families she would inevitably marry into. There would be a few years at the fashionable school, then a few years of play—travel, perhaps—and then her engagement would be announced. It was all very hopeless . . .

"Besides," and he rolled over once more to stare at his reflection in the creek, "you'll forget all about it in a little while. Joe Craig would laugh at you and call it puppy love. And that's all it is, I guess. Daddy was right."

But it was one thing to revile himself and prophesy a change of heart, and quite another when he tried to extract some comfort out of it. It might be that this feeling toward Rita was a childish thing and to be easily forgotten; still, it all felt very real to him.

His memory carried him back to the time that he had been helpless for weeks with a broken leg and Rita, her customary arrogance banished by touching contriteness, had sat beside him and sung songs to him the while she had strummed on her guitar. It had been then, he now told himself, that he had overcome that dislike for her that he instinctively had felt at first sight of her and which had been fed by her imperiousness and her occasional cruelties. He remembered, too, how he had lied to save her from censor when her father had asked about the accident, and he wondered if she remembered.

For hours he lay on the bank beside Cottonwood Creek, the victim of torturing thoughts. When he arose to go the sun was low in the west and he tried to think of an explanation that would satisfy Joe Craig.

Lace Jenkins, Jess Miner and Lew Jenkins Enter Then in Show.—Less Influenza Among Hogs.

NORTHEAST NODAWAY—We are having beautiful weather right here in good old Missouri. Why go to Florida or California? The air is just cool enough to give one lots of pep.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dowis drove to Savannah Tuesday and spent the day with Mr. Dowis' mother, Mrs. W. F. Dowis.

Mrs. Amelia Stoner returned home Wednesday from Texas where she has been visiting her son and daughter, in the panhandle country. She was called home by the illness of her son's wife, Mrs. Virgil Stoner, who was operated upon in the St. Francis hospital in Maryville for appendicitis. At last reports she was getting along fine.

Lace Jenkins, Jess Miner and Lew Jenkins shipped sixteen head of their young Hereford animals to the Denver Livestock Show. They started with them Thursday.

Dick Wake is on the sick list this week.

Among the farmers who were Maryville visitors Wednesday were Albert Wilson, E. K. Brown, Will Alyn and Miles Spargur.

Luke Blanchard of the commission firm of Blakely and Blanchard of St. Joseph, spent Friday night with E. E. Dowis.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Young spent Saturday in Shenandoah, visiting the Field and May Broadcasting stations.

Several bunches of hogs that were affected with influenza a few days ago are reported all recovered without any loss. In a good many herds lime was sprinkled freely among the hogs and bedding which seemed to effect a cure. Others report the use of different "flu" remedies.

John Palmer is now able to be at the home of his son, W. A. Palmer of Maryville. He went to the hospital Nov. 10th for an infection of his hand.

F. O. Wilson better known as Francy, has purchased the Hardware store of Arthur Turner at Athelstan.

Mrs. Burman Wright of Skidmore underwent an operation at St. Francis hospital this morning.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a wellknown authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours; tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action—it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

After Winter's Colds

It Is Wise to Check Up on the Kidneys.

WATCH your kidneys after colds and grip! When the kidneys slow up, impurities remain in the blood and are apt to make one tired and achy with headaches, dizziness and often nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CARD OF THANKS 3

WE WISH to express our thanks to friends and neighbors for help and sympathy extended to us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother.—S. D. McGuire, Geo. S. McGuire, Nellie F. McGuire, Chas. E. McGuire.

OBITUARIES 6

MARY MARGARET MACE, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Mace, was born in Ohio, September 20, 1855, and departed this life January 8, 1928, age 72 years, 3 months and 18 days.

Her father having died when she was an infant, she with her mother came to Missouri in 1856, where she has resided continuously until her death.

She was wedded to Squire D. McGuire at Gentryville, Mo., December 18, 1870. To this union were born seven children, five sons and two daughters. Four of them preceded her in death. She leaves to mourn her death her husband, two sons, Geo. S. and C. E. McGuire, and one daughter, Nellie F. McGuire. Also one brother, J. B. Baker, four grandchildren and a host of friends and relatives.

She was all that the word Mother means to a family. She was a member of the Methodist Church having joined in Barnard, Mo., in 1876, where she had her membership when called away.

She is gone, but will not be forgotten for we can say of her as was said of one of old, "For tomorrow is the new moon, thou shalt be missed for thy seat will be empty."

Her funeral was conducted from the home in Arkoe, Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. J. Howard Thompson, her former pastor, but now of Hopkins, Mo., after which she was laid to rest in the Barnard Cemetery to await ressurection morn. The family have the deepest sympathy of all in their grief.

MARTHA MONTGOMERY KERR was born near Fillmore, in Andrew County, Missouri, April 4, 1849, and was called to her eternal home, January 7, 1928, age 78 years, 9 months and 3 days.

She was a pioneer resident of Nodaway county, having resided in this vicinity 57 years.

She was married to John K. Smith, January 13, 1867. To this union was born four children; one, a son, having died in infancy.

Those who remain to mourn the loss of a mother, fond and true, are Mrs. C. H. Wood, Mrs. J. J. Linthicum and Oliver K. Smith, all of this vicinity. She also leaves 7 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

She united with the Christian Church in early life and was faithful to the end; and left this world happy in the assurance that all is well. Among the last words she spoke were: "Be Faithful to the Church." She was a charter member of the Palestine Church.

The memory of her life will be an incentive to those who knew and loved her best, to live for that which is high and noble, faithful to the God she loved and served, true to His church—to give service to others.

"She lived for those who loved her,
For those who knew her true;
For the Heaven that smiled above her,
And the good that she might do."

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Corn and oats showed some strength, but wheat weakened and lost considerably during today's dull session. Late in the day wheat was off fractionally, corn was around steady with the previous close, having lost much of its opening advance, and oats was holding a fractional advance well.

Corn rallied suddenly from the weakness of mid-session, and closed with large gains. Wheat failed to recover and finished slightly under the previous close. Oats advanced with corn and finished with substantial gains.

Wheat was very quiet, lacking outside interest and influential news. Liverpool cables were higher, inducing some strength during the morning but the generally bearish world situation continued to prompt selling and the gains were lost. There was little disposition on either side to take a determined stand. Export business was flat. Receipts here were 50 cars and the cash market declined half cent.

Corn rallied early and gained a considerable fraction, on unfavorable belt weather and small receipts. Sleet covered a large section on the belt and will probably tie up the marketing movement during the next few days. Expected large week-end receipts failed to materialize, only 168 cars arriving here. Local professionals, however, disregarded the bullish factors, and sold freely. Prices thereupon eased and most of the morning's gains were lost, although there was no real depression. The cash market was half cent lower.

Oats showed surprising independent strength, gaining a good fraction early and holding the gains despite weakness in other pits. Commission houses bought freely and offerings were light. Receipts totaled 120 cars; cash oats was ¼c higher.

Provisions held around steady.

Final figures:

Wheat, unchanged to ⅛c lower; corn, ⅞c to 1¼c higher; oats, ⅝c to ¾c higher. Provisions closed lower.

TOURNEY TO HOME TEAM

BURLINGTON JUNCTION WINS FINAL FROM HOPKINS.

EASILY THE SUPERIOR

Champs Score Victories Also Over Clearmont and Rock Port.—Trophies Presented.

Endurance, supplemented with accuracy, teamwork and speed, brought a championship to the Burlington Junction quintet in the basketball tournament held there Saturday.

The Burlington Junction men defeated Clearmont and Rock Port in the first two rounds and then romped away to first place in the final tilt with Hopkins. A large silver basketball, mounted upon an ebony base, was awarded to the winners and a silver miniature of a basketball player was awarded to the Hopkins Bull dogs.

The final go between the two surviving teams began at 8 o'clock. The Blue and White men of Hopkins appeared strong contenders for the championship, having won three games in less than twenty-four hours.

The very first clash of the two fives seemed to indicate the Junction men's supremacy, however. A vigor in which the Hopkins quintet was sadly lacking evidenced itself at the very first and Hopkins soon was left behind. The home team led with a long toss. A double foul was called for unnecessary roughness and the Burlington try was successful. Score 3 to 1. Baker added a single to the Hopkins account and then the Burlington barricade began.

No Rally Forthcoming.

Hopkins took time out, but a rally did not materialize. Florea substituted for Flowers at guard in the Hopkins line-up, but the onslaught was not halted. Burlington Junction was caging from every angle, while Hopkins was tiring more and more. The score at the quarter stood 12 to 1. A short Hopkins challenge at first of the second period boosted the Blue's score to six but did not halt the Junction men.

Ted Search, Hopkins coach, sent his warriors back in the second half trying a man for man defense, but the opponents came in for their regular stream of baskets, Manes and Plummer causing most of the damage. Burlington was displaying a brand of basketball better than in any of its early round games. The final tally was 37 to 9.

Claude Thompson, Burlington Junction coach, presented the two trophies with a short speech.

The tournament was well attended and, on the whole, interesting. A pep squad of fourteen Burlington Junction high school girls, uniformly dressed in blue and white, added much to the entertainment with an act presented between the halves of each game in which the Burlington boys were contestants. Music was furnished by a peppy high school orchestra.

Dick Kirby, superintendent at Corning, Mo., former S. T. C. letter man, refereed the tourney. The games were held in the armory which houses the Burlington Junction battery.

Eight outstanding teams, including Ravenwood, Clearmont, Graham, Rock Port, Hopkins, Savannah, Elmo and Burlington Junction, were entered in the tourney, sponsored by the business men of Burlington Junction, but Graham was not able to appear and in the draw, Elmo was given a bye. Burlington drew Clearmont, Hopkins drew Ravenwood, which they had defeated the night before, and Rock Port drew Savannah.

Burlington 27, Clearmont 11.

Play began at about 9 o'clock Saturday morning with Burlington Junction and Clearmont on the floor. Clearmont seemed to hold its own very well in the first half of this contest and was leading by one point, 9 to 8, when this period ended. In the second semester, the Junction five hit its stride and quickly ran up a score to settle the question. Clearmont failed to tally in the third quarter, while the locals doubled their own count. Clearmont was held to a two pointed in the final division but Burlington continued to tally. The final score was 27 to 11.

Hopkins 13, Ravenwood 5.

Hopkins and Ravenwood met in the second contest of the morning. Ravenwood led with a single point from the charity line but was soon tied by the Hopkins men. Before the quarter ended Ravenwood had sent another gift toss through to set the score 2 to 1 in its favor. Early in the second period, Hopkins began scoring from the field and by half time had the contest fairly well in hand. Ravenwood slipped in its only field counter of the game early in the third quarter and this was the last from this aggregation. Hopkins won by a 13 to 5 count. Scoring was low because of poor court conditions.

Rock Port 21, Savannah 8.

The final tilt of the first round was played just before noon between Rock Port and Savannah. This contest started with all the fire necessary to a thrilling game but soon slowed up and dragged to a close. Rock Port, a decisive winner. The Savannah five, coached by Sam England, seemed to have the edge early in the game but tired quickly, and Rock Port forged ahead with a lead that was held the rest of the game. The final score was 21 to 8. At half time the teams were tied, 3 all.

Hopkins 17, Elmo 8.

The semi-finals began at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The first game was played between Hopkins and Elmo, Hopkins displayed more spirit in this contest than in the morning tilt against Ravenwood. The Bulldogs tallied first with a single. Elmo soon tied. Bridgewater, Hopkins, was blocked in shooting, the goal was successful, and he rang in one of the free tosses to close the first siesta, 4 to 1. Hopkins then tromped on through the fracas with ease, winning with a 17 to 8 decision.

Burlington had little trouble in its second bid for the finals. Red Berst's huskies of Rock Port, though playing a swift moving game were not dangerous scorers. Burlington piled up ten field counters to its opponents two, although the Rock Port men accumulated seven tallied from the foul line against the Junction's one. George Manes and the four Plummers, constituting the Orange and Black quintet, were functioning much better than in the morning fray.

Elmo 22, Rock Port 9

At 7 p. m., a consolation game was played between the losers in the semi-finals, Rock Port and Elmo. The two teams seesawed for considerable time, but finally the Elmo aggregation broke in a more rapid gait and galloped to the finish with a decisive margin 22-9. At the half the score stood 6 to 1 in favor of Elmo. In the middle of the third quarter, the leaders unraveled a string of counters which set them out of danger for the rest of the fracas.

A TOUGH JOB FOR BEARCATS

TEAM HERE TONIGHT IS NEBRASKA CHAMPION.

WILL DISPLAY STARS

Three All-Conference Men in Peru Ranks.—Springfield Looms as Streng M. I. A. A. Contender.

The probable starting line-up of the Bearcats tonight:

Hedges, Ungles, forwards; Burks, center; Harris, Ferguson, guards.

Burks suffered a slight injury to his right eyeball in scrimmage last week and Coach H. F. Lawrence was not certain whether he would be able to play tonight. The tall center has not been working out with the squad lately. The coach said if Burks did not play he would use Raymond McKee at center.

Nebraska's College basketball champions for five consecutive years will be seen in action tonight at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College gymnasium. The State Normal school and Teachers quintet of Peru will meet the Bearcats at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Peru team is coached by Paul E. Kutnink, who says that he has eight letter men on the squad, which is a pretty good indication that the Nebraskans will show the Bearcat fans a mighty interesting game. Three of these letter men have had two years experience and three of them have won all-Nebraska recognition.

So it will be a game of all-Missouri conference stars against all-Nebraska conference stars tonight, as Paul Burks and Orville Hedges were placed on the first all-M. I. A. A. team and Leon Ungles on the second team last year.

The Nebraskans come here with quite a record, having won sixty-five out of sixty-eight Nebraska conference games.

The game here tonight will be the first collegiate game of the season for the Peru squad but it has met and defeated several athletic clubs by decisive scores. Mr. Kutnink writes that "we hope to give Maryville a real game."

As the Bearcats are in action tonight, the fans will be given some indication as to what might be expected of them in the Missouri Intercollegiate loop. The game with Tarkio last week was rather a scrimmage for the Bearcats and does not throw much light on their prowess, as Tarkio this year seems destined to be tossed around considerably by other Missouri teams. The Tarks were beaten on their own floor by William Jewell, 53 to 7, Saturday night.

Meanwhile the Springfield Teachers of the Ozark region has been causing considerable comment. And rightfully so. Just a little comparison:

Pittsburgh, Kan., Teachers defeated Catholic Community Club, strong independents of Kansas City, 45 to 14.

Springfield defeated Pittsburgh 50 to 40.

The Bears have played seven games to date, including one conference tilt, and have made 360 points to opponents' 205. The Bears beat Cape Girardeau, 61 to 16, Saturday, and used second string men in the last half. The latter part of last week Warrensburg beat Cape Girardeau 57 to 31 and 34-29.

The Mules play a two-game series here Friday and Saturday nights.

The Bearcats then will taste their first conference menu, which, from all indications, will be as tough as last year, and probably a little more so. Springfield will furnish more competition, Warrensburg appears stronger and Kirksville boasts a big squad of letter men. Last year the Bearcats, with as good a team as ever wore the Green and White colors, had a spasmodic season, starting off with a string of victories and rising to the heights to defeat the Hillyards, only to fall below their standard and drop enough games to tie them with Kirksville for conference honors.

CONCEPTION EASY WINNER OVER PALMER

Catholic Collegians Invade Albany and Cop 39-29 Game.—To Clarinda Wednesday.

Conception College basketball team took a rough and rather ragged game from Palmer College on the Albany High School floor Saturday night by the score of 39 to 29.

The game was featured by the guarding and shooting of Downey, and floor work of Reising and Captain Gales. Conception was in possession of the ball the greater part of the time. Palmer made a number of long shots in the early part of the game, but later failed to register on many of the attempts. Ebersole's ability to penetrate the Conception defense to get under his own basket was the feature for Palmer.

Coach Magee sent in the entire Conception second string men in the line-up in the last few minutes, and Palmer scored twice. The score by quarters:

Conception	6	16	28	39
Palmer	8	10	14	29
